Modern Dramatists And Russian Short Stories Discussed

W. Alford And Bernice Fer-neyhough Present
Papers

AT LITERATURE SOCIETY

Influence And Characteristics Outlined To Students

Two addresses were delivered yesterday at the meeting of the English Literature Society by Bernice Ferneyhough and W. Alford, graduate students. The first paper was concerned with the modern Russian short story, while the latter dealt with some striking features among modern American dramatists. The meeting was held in the Grill Room of the Union.

Miss Ferneyhough stated at the opening of her paper that the Russian short story does a great deal to verify an optimistic picture of the new world in Russia. There is an emphasis on the concrete and the necessity of the individual's service to the community is apparent in the stories. The mystic element is entirely replaced by the realistic.

Interest In Humanity

Interest in humanity is a major feature in the Russian short story. There is a certain tolerance and light-hearted humour and cynicism is noticeably absent. As a representative of these characteristic features, the speaker quoted from the work of Gaborovitch. A. Tolstol in his "Azure Cities" also shows this realism, but he is of a more reflective nature. His hero is a dreamer of the Western type. He dreams of great achievements which he never realizes, and eventually goes mad, committing suicide. In this collection of short stories, Miss Ferneyhough quoted from the "Miracle," "Song of the Chains" and "Youth," all being representative of the modern Russian short story.

Anderson a Realist

The second paper delivered by W. Alford, stressed the close connection of the American theatre to Canadians. The first dramatist he discussed was M. Anderson, whom the speaker considered as probably the most important contemporary dramatist, with

Institute Convened To Present Papers

Frost, Archambault Speak
On Cries And Electric
Line Interference

Two lectures were delivered last night before a small audience at the Junior Engineering Institute, by Mr. Frost and Mr. Archambault, both Graduates of McGill.

Mr. Frost, who has been working with the constructors of the Montreal Harbour Docks for the last few years, outlined the construction and erection of a cry; a cry is a huge, thick wall of masonry forming the front face of a harbour dock. Wooden casings are prepared, then floated and tugged to the required emplacement. They are made to rest on a structure of wood pilings, the top of which reaches almost to the water surface. When the casing is finally in position, rocks and cement are gradually poured in to fill it, the rate of filling being controlled so as to allow the cement to set properly.

Mr. Archambault's paper dealt with the "Interference between Electric Power Lines and Telephone Lines." An elementary physical law states that a conductor carrying a current is surrounded by a magnetic field, the intensity and strength of which changes with the current; and conversely, a conductor lying in a magnetic field will be affected by changes in the intensity and direction of the field, that is, a change in the field will induce a current in the conductor. Since electric power lines transmit alternating currents, the magnetic fields about these lines will be continually changing, and will therefore affect any lines lying in the vicinity, such as a telephone line.

It is an experimental fact that influence can be exerted at distances of three or four miles, and very often trouble in a telephone line will be due to defects in an electric conductor several miles away. Mr. Archambault explained the methods used to neutralize effects of lines on each other. For example, if the two electric power lines are made to work at a 180 degree phase difference, the magnetic effects will exactly balance each other and no harm will be done. But should one line become grounded, as happens sometimes during a storm, the balancing effect of that line is removed and the noise resulting in the neighbouring telephone lines is unbearable. The only remedy is to locate the ground and repair the damage.

Philosophers Hear Dr. Hendel Tonight

THE question of "authority" will be raised tonight at the meeting of the Philosophical Society, when Dr. C. Hendel will address the gathering to be held in Strathcona Hall at eight o'clock. It is expected that Dr. Hendel will favour liberty and will touch upon the relation of authority to Politics, Art and Life itself.

Professor Clarke will also be present and will explain the need for authority. The meeting, it is expected, will not only be of interest to Philosophy students, but those of Education as well. All are cordially invited. Discussion will follow.

German Problems To Be Considered At Economy Club

GERMANY, its industrial, economic, social and political problems, will be discussed by two recent visitors to that country, in the persons of W. J. Hasler and J. B. Rolitt, at the meeting of the Political Economy Club tonight, which will be held in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building.

Hasler, the President of the club, and fourth year honour student in Economics, and Rolitt, Graduate student, will both give a picture of the recent events in Germany, and will lay stress on their wide-spread consequences on the country and the world in general. Both will be speaking from experience which lend greater interest to what they have to say.

All men students are invited to attend the meeting which will be held at 8:30 p.m. As usual refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting, and discussion will follow.

Dinner Planned By Arts Undergraduates

J. S. Woodsworth, M.P.,
Leader Of C.C.F. To Be
Guest Speaker

IN QUEEN'S HOTEL

Reduced Rate Of 60c Allowed To Members Of Society

The Arts Undergraduate Banquet will be held early in March. This banquet, long planned, now is almost a reality. J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. will be the guest speaker. The banquet will be held in the Queen's Hotel and a special reduced price will be allowed on tickets sold to the students of the Arts Faculty.

Mr. Woodsworth, the leader of the C.C.F. party in the Dominion Parliament will make a special trip to Montreal for this occasion. The executive of the Arts Undergraduate Society wish to point out that the price of sixty cents is exceptionally low for a hotel banquet and will be allowed only on tickets purchased by the members of the Arts Undergraduate Society. The price to those other than the society members will be $1.10.

New Departure

This banquet in the Queen's Hotel will be the first of its kind held for some years and it is expected, by the executive, that a large crowd will be on hand. At this banquet the revised constitution of the Arts Undergraduate Society will be presented. This constitution has been drawn up by a special committee which has been working for some time on the question.

The Arts undergraduate Society this year, consists of Malcolm Ransom, President; Arnold Johnson, Vice President; Dave Goodman, Treasurer; and Douglas Mackenzie, Secretary, while Gordon Wilson represents the Freshmen on this executive.

This is the first year that the freshmen have been allowed representation on the executive and follows out a new policy adopted by the society.

Arts Sophomores Plan Class Lunch

Dr. T. H. Clark Will Speak
At Final Class Function

Arts '36 final class event for the year will be held on Friday. This will take the form of a luncheon, to be held on February 23rd, in the Union Grill Room at one p.m.

The speaker on this occasion will be Dr. T. H. Clark of the Department of Geology. Other guests will include Dr. Bruce Ross and Malcolm Ransom, of Department 2 Mathematics, President of the Arts Undergrad Society.

As this is the final class meeting of the year the executive expects a large crowd to be on hand. There is little business to be discussed, several reports on the year's activities will be presented, but students are assured that the luncheon will be over in time for the two o'clock lectures.

Tickets for the luncheon are 50 cents and may be obtained at the door of the Grill Room. Last year a class dinner was held, and as this was successful the executive decided to plan a similar affair this year. In view of the many events which take place on Friday night it was decided to hold a luncheon rather than a dinner.

Last year the class activities did not cease until near the end of March, but this season it was felt by the executive that more co-operation would be forthcoming if the final event was held earlier as the later date keeps a number of classes from attending.

The committee in charge of the luncheon includes John H. McDonald,

Alarm Clock Questionnaire Appears Friday Morning

SOMETHING new will be presented to the McGill Undergrads tomorrow morning. A questionnaire, prepared by the Alarm Clock, in order to determine the Student opinion on Salient Subjects of the day will be placed beside the piles of Dailies in the Arts, Medical and Engineering Buildings. Students are asked to fill in the questionnaires and drop them in the ballot boxes without signing them.

The questionnaire will consist of questions on politics and war and will contain some of the following questions: Do you believe that Canada should support Britain in another European War? Would you rather go to jail or war? Do you think that the future of Canada lies in political union with the U.S.A.? What party do you intend to support in the next Dominion Election? Do you favour the abolition of the C.O.T.C.? Are you in favour of the abolition of fraternities at McGill? Do you read the editorials in the McGill Daily?

Students are asked to fill in one ballot only, and place it in the box before noon on Saturday. The answers will appear in the next Alarm Clock.

Three Debating Trophies At Stake Tonight In Union

Internationalism
Reigns Supreme
At S. C. M. Tea

Many Nations Represented
At Colorful Function
Yesterday

As a feature of International

Week, the S.C.M. held an International Tea in the Common Room in Strathcona Hall yesterday afternoon. About fifty persons were present, many of them dressed in the picturesque costumes of the various nations represented at the Tea. The Common Room was decorated with flags and pennants which lent an unusually attractive atmosphere to the affair. Here and there, on side tables exhibits had been placed, the most numerous of which were of Chinese and Hungarian handiwork. Brass ornaments, teak displays and samples of handwork were predominant.

Musical entertainment was provided after tea had been served and consisted of several solos by Fraulein H. Klahn, and a number of renditions by the Lee Sisters. Fraulein Klahn sang the Lord's Prayer in German. Chinese hymns were rendered by the Misses Eleanor Lee, Dorothy Lee, and Margaret Lee. The McGill Glee Club was also to have been present, but was unfortunately unable to attend. During the course of the Tea, Miss Ida Curtis played the piano for the enjoyment of the guests. The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. G. W. Birks, Mrs. J. W. Beaton and Miss Daisy Woo.

David Lim Yuen, chairman, addressed the gathering briefly, and expressed the hope that the cause of internationalism would be fostered by the students at McGill by their participation in such expressions of goodwill as the Tea itself represented. The complete list of countries included in the exhibits showed that in the displays were examples of culture of Slavic, Hungarian, Chinese, Japanese and Palestinian origin.

Annual Competition Finishes Tomorrow

Three Prizes Offered For Best Photographs

Closing date for the Annual photographic competition has been announced as tomorrow. While a great number of pictures have already been received it is expected that this announcement will stimulate some campus photographers who have been intending to submit entries.

As previously announced the prizes are as follows: 1st, $5.00 and an annual; 2nd, $5.00 and 3rd an annual. These prizes are awarded on the basis of human interest, clarity of picture and relation to student life. As this section of the annual will this year take the form of a scrapbook, photos suitable for this will be welcomed by the editors. It is emphasised that excellence of photography from an artistic point of view is not an essential.

"Almost a hundred photos have been received" stated a member of the board last night. He remarked, however, that not as much variety as was desired had been evidenced by the entries, and that it was hoped that the concluding days of the competition would considerably increase the stock from which the final selection will be made.

S. V. M. Secretary To Preach Sunday

Mr. Jesse Wilson Has Had Noted And Varied
Career

Continuing the student services which have been held each Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Chapel of Divinity Hall, Mr. Jesse R. Wilson, the General Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement of North America is to be the speaker.

Mr. Jesse R. Wilson graduated from the University of Texas in 1915 with Phi Beta Kappa honors. His graduate work was done at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and at Yale Divinity School. For two years he was State Student Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. for Texas, and for one year a Travelling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement. Then for five years he was engaged in evangelistic and educational work in Japan—at first in a rural district and later in a large industrial centre.

In 1926 the Student Volunteer Movement was casting about for an Associate General Secretary who would in time become the General Secretary. Mr. Wilson was asked to serve in this capacity and after careful consideration accepted. The next year, on Dr. Wilders resignation as General Secretary, Mr. Wilson succeeded him.

He has many engagements during his visit to Montreal and his only public one is at the service on Sunday morning, so it is expected that there will be a large attendance to hear this speaker. Murray Brooks, the local secretary of the S.C.M., will be leading the service and Louise Hurd will be in charge of the music assisted by a student choir.

Dr. W. F. Kelloway To Lecture Tuesday

Addreses Christian Commonwealth Youth
Movement

Dr. Warwick F. Kelloway of Ottawa, will address an open meeting at Stevenson Hall, adjoining Emmanuel Church, on Tuesday, Feb. 27, at 8:00 o'clock. Dr. Kelloway's subject will be "Today's Challenge to Canadian Youth."

Dr. Kelloway is the founder and leader of the Christian Commonwealth Youth Movement which has a considerable following in Eastern Ontario. Realizing that such a venture calls for co-operative effort, this meeting is under denominational and is actuated solely by the keen desire of contemporary Christian groups, to stimulate the interest of the young people of Montreal to the problems confronting Canadian youth as a whole.

McGill students are particularly invited to be present.

Redmen Carry Lead Into Next Game—Beat Verdun 3-2

Farmer, Farquharson And McGill Do Scoring

Redmen Outplay Leafs After Trailing For One Period — Brunet Scores Goal With Only Four Seconds To Go — Ken Farmer Plays Outstanding Game For McGill — Reorganized Six Expected To Eliminate Verdun

MORE THAN five thousand people saw Dr. Bobby Bell's revamped McGill team outbattle a much improved Verdun team last night and once a bad first period had been written off, outscore the Maple Leafs and carry off the honours in their first meeting in the Senior Group elimination series. When the game was over the Bellmen sported a 3-2 victory for their hard night's work and will carry a one goal advantage into their next game as a result of their efforts.

Verdun Score First
McGill outplayed their opponents for the final two periods but they found things a bit strange for the first twenty minutes. Verdun made the most of their advantage in this respect and flashed a brilliant combination attack which completely baffled the Redmen. Their repeated efforts were rewarded with a goal but McGill settled down in the second session and rapped in two beautiful tallies that brought the crowd to its feet. Early in the third frame they increased their advantage to two goals and were playing all over Verdun when Lucien Brunet, giant leaf defenceman waded in from McGill's blue line with but four seconds left to play and cut the Redmen's lead to a single goal.

Kenny Farmer put on one of the best displays of the season. No matter where he played, whether it was centre, left wing or right wing he completely dominated the situation, both coming and going. Starting at centre ice between Shaughnessy and McLennan, and then shifting to right wing with McGill and Farquharson and holding down his old left wing at times as well the little fellow drew rounds of applause for his clever work. Almost the first play of the game saw him foil an almost certain scoring thrust when he spilled a Verdun forward right in front of the goal, drawing a penalty for his work. His back-checking throughout was of a tireless variety.

Farmer Scores Beauty
His goal, the one that tied things up and gave McGill a new lease on life was one of the prettiest seen in the Group all year. A solo effort, it served to show conclusively that Farmer is one of the fastest and cleverest puck carriers in senior company. Taking the puck behind his own blue line, Farmer cut loose with a terrific burst of speed down the right lane. Across the centre ice strip he sped unmolested to round Brunet like a shot out of a gun and then pull out in front of the cage from where he drove right in on Martel and flipped the puck into the cords, somersaulting in typical Charlie Conacher fashion over the sprawled goalie and landing in a heap in the corner.

The roar that greeted the diminutive star's brilliant play was followed several minutes later by another burst of cheering from the McGill supporters as Hughie Farquharson took a perfect pass from Gordie Melkiejohn to whip a terrific shot from the defence into the top of the cage. Martel made a futile stab at the puck but hadn't a chance of saving the drive.

Jack McGill Gets Third
Not content to rest on their laurels the McGill team went in quest of more goals to fortify their position for their next meeting and Jack McGill finally did the trick, after plugging away repeatedly at Martel. Hughie Farquharson gave McGill the pass and the blonde Ottawa speed merchant dazzled Martel into submission after stepping around the defence, blasting his shot into the corner to put his team two up.

Verdun became disorganized completely once McGill went on the rampage and failed to dent McGill's armour with their passing attacks until Luce Brunet, with everyone waiting for the bell to ring grabbed the puck and literally waded through the whole McGill team all by himself until he had steamrollered into shooting position in the goal mouth. McHugh hadn't a chance on his shot.

McHugh In Fine Fettle
McHugh played a whale of a game in the McGill net, particularly when Verdun were clicking. Shot after shot was drifted his way from all points in the big rink but only four of them beat him, two of which went for goals, while one hit the post and the other was called back for interference. Bourcier, the Leaf's big threat failed to make any impression on McHugh though he had several nice chances.

Kilby's goal in the first period saw McHugh kick out two shots, the first from Bourcier and the second from Ethier before he finally succumbed to the third successive drive which came from Kilby's stick.

Melkiejohn Powerful
McGill's hopes brightened considerably with the win and Verdun will find them even tougher next week. Melkiejohn put on another of his stellar displays, blocking and clearing effectively and rushing with all his

Tank Squad Ready For College Meet

Team Picked To Represent McGill At Hart House LEAVES TOMORROW

MCGILL'S mermen once more will hit the rills for the Queen City, where they will be the guests of the Toronto Hart House team. The Baptist McMaster University of Hamilton sprang a surprise by a sudden entry into the intercollegiate meet, but the red coterie which has held the championship for the last four consecutive years is not likely to find much unexpected opposition.

George Vickerson's squad will be missed at the Dominion meet taking place tomorrow night at the M.A.A.A. tank. Representatives from Toronto Y.M.C.A. as well as Kingston will make this a competition well worth seeing despite the absence of McGill from the line-up. Pete Bourne will lose an opportunity at trying for the 100 and 200 yards free style at which he excels. Mark Stein's entry will also be missing, as the captain of the natators will travel to Toronto with his team on Friday afternoon.

Red Team Strong
Bill Sprenger is counted on to win the back stroke for the Red and White, and the free style will have as entrants Pete Bourne, Mark Stein and T. P. Howard. Dud Butterfield and Jimmy Mills will do the honors in the diving while Hugo Savage and Jim Wilson fight out their rivalry in still another tank to determine their respective rights to hold the title for the breast stroke. This has not as yet been satisfactorily settled, as the two seem to alternate in taking first place in this position. The relay teams will be unusually strong as the team will be composed of Pete Bourne, Mark Stein, Fred Shaw and Howard for the free style. On the medley Bill Sprenger will swim back stroke, Jim Wilson the breast, and Pete Bourne the free style. This relay group was extremely well mated for the Lions' Club, which took place at the N.D.G. tank last Saturday night.

The ten man team is leaving Windsor Station at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Manager Malcolm Blakely requests all members of the team to appear on time: P. Bourne, M. Stein, J. Wilson, D. Butterfield, H. Savage, L. Skinner, B. Sprenger, J. Mills, F. Shaw and T. P. Howard.

The team:
50 yds.—free style—Stein, Howard, Shaw (spare).
100 yds.—free style—Stein, Shaw, A. Bourne (spare).

Ping Pong Final To Be Held Tomorrow

THE second bracket of the semi-finals of the ping-pong tournament was played yesterday and everything is ready for the finals which are to be played this afternoon in the Union. Abrams defeated Machin 3-1 and is all keyed up to meet Tolhurst the other finalist and dark horse of the tournament. The men are very evenly matched, both having shown excellent form to date. Spectators will be welcomed at the match but are earnestly requested to restrain from applause as this is liable to put the finalists off their game. Manager Red McLennan is to be congratulated on the successful way in which he has conducted this tourney and the quantity of unknown talent that he has unearthed.

McGill Intermediates Win Intercollegiate Ice Title

Tie U. Of M. 4-4 To Finish Schedule Without A Loss — Byrne Is Best For Redmen, Scoring Twice — Barsalou, Asselin And Auger Star For Frenchmen — Bishop's And Loyola Tied For Second Place — McGill Weak Defensively

MCGILL INTERMEDIATES added another intercollegiate title to the Red collection yesterday, holding University of Montreal to a 4-4 draw at the Forum and picking up the one point needed to put them beyond the reach of the French students in the league standing. The seconds, by holding their rivals to a tie completed their college schedule without a loss, having won four games and tied one in the five matches played. Bishop's and Loyola are tied for second position with four points each, five behind McGill while U. of M. have three points.

Laurie Byrne a Standout
The Redmen, without Wigle and McLennan, almost went down to defeat at the hands of the fighting French team and only the timely pinch-hitting of Laurie Byrne, who twice tied things up with sorely needed tallies saved them from a beating. Byrne played a standout game every inch of the way and his goals were typical of his play as he seized sudden opportunities that were left open to beat Barsalou in the U. of M. cage. His generalship on the ice and off and his persistent backchecking played a big part in McGill's win.

The French team, possessed of plenty of speed, made full use of their ability to give the McGill team a real scare. Tricky stickhandling, shifty skating and persistent boring in brought all four of the goals for the Blue and Gold team. Little more than three minutes of the first period had elapsed when they jumped into the lead. Fabien, stellar defenceman of the French squad picked up a pass from Granger and flipped it into the cage from a scramble. The McGill attack finally got organized and after three minutes more of pounding in on down in an attempt to save but Byrne poked the disc beneath him to save the day for the Redmen.

Each Line Gets Two
Defensively McGill looked bad but offensively they were somewhat better. Elwood, Byrne and Crawford formed an effective first line, getting two of the goals while Carsley, Calder, MacDuff and Dickson alternated on the second line, likewise notching up two tallies.

U. of M. were much better than they were in previous meetings with McGill in the City and District loop and they capitalized on their scoring opportunities smartly. Barsalou in their cage proved hard to beat once again while Asselin, Granger and Auger filled their jobs capably.

Kayo Mullins Gets Highest Fan Vote In Student Survey

Eugene, Ore. — Atop the man-size derby of the pint-size Kayo Mullins rests the "crown of comedy" bestowed upon the mighty atom as the result of an extensive survey of the University cubs and "eds." Kayo scampers in just a lap ahead of Popeye, the salty old Hercules of the comics, and not far behind him puffed Pa Perkins of Polly and her pals.

This was the verdict of more than 250 Oregon students questioned concerning their favorite comic strip character during the past two weeks.

Kayo Mullins, who cavorts daily with the Mullins and Plushbottom clan, won the gilded trophy with 77 votes accounted for, seemingly because "he's so cute," to fair readers and "he says the right thing at the wrong time," according to male admirers.

"Popeye Preferred" rose several points in value when the Emerald sports staff was approached. The boys who compose panegyrics on various athletes voted hands down for the muscle-merchant without a single dissenting voice. When asked for an explanation, Bill Phillips, sports editor, replied, "We eat our spinach!" the field to themselves. There was to be a place on a easy second.

Pa Perkins was also a pronounced favorite in the compilation, with 53 counters.

These three laugh producers had the field to themselves. There was no other character within hailing distance of the little cynic, the sailor with the perfect forearm development, and the wise old man of the household. Little Orphan Annie lagged far in the rear with but 12 fans.

The remainder of the field spread out into a succession of personal favorites: Emmy, Andy Gump, Tillie Willis, Moon Mullins, Boots, Ella Cinders, the Nebs, Jiggs, Harold Teen, Tim Tyler, Willy Mullins, Skeezix, and so on down the list of characters who have their trials and temptations in every daily paper.

Tom Tongue, president of the student body, wasted no time when broached about his favorite, "Popeye" was the immediate answer.

Sterling Green, editor of the Emerald, also upheld the sailor, possibly influenced a wee bit by Popeye's new profession.

To prove that intellectuals also enjoy perusing the daily cartoons, four of the "perfect students" who last fall gained all A's in their subjects, were questioned. Martha Goodrich and Edward M. Hicks strengthened the Popeye sentiment, Lloyd G. Humphreys voted for "all the fellows in 'Out Our Way,'" and the fourth denied reading the comic strips.

First prize for the best fence-straddling remark goes to Joe Saslavsky, managing-editor of the Emerald, who stated, "I do not read the comic strips, but if I did read the comic strips, I would read 'The Nebs'."

Honorable Horak, Emerald feature writer, came through with the most facetious verdict, "I read the comic strips for the psychology implied in them."

There were eight students who were comic strip abstainers, but who knows that even these strong-willed personages sometimes peek furtively into today's paper to see how Popeye gets rid of the Brulser boys?

Youth Of China Going Athletic

Peiping, China. — China is going athletic. That represents a revolutionary change in a land only recently addicted to sports pages, golf courses, tennis courts, playing fields, swimming pools, and running tracks.

For centuries the Chinese regarded physical exertion as fit only for the lowly. One of Peiping's favorite tales is of a diplomat's house boy, who, watching his employer play tennis for the first time, wondered why the master and his friend didn't hire two boys to bat the ball back and forth.

Field Meets Galore

Now there is scarcely a Province in China which does not have an annual track and field meet. There are large public swimming pools in the cities of a land whose people traditionally have been supposed to fear the water. China now is preparing for the Third National Athletic Meet this year. She will send a bigger delegation than ever to the next World Olympic Games and she expects to carry off high honors at the next Far Eastern Olympic Games in Manila.

To the Chinese the national development of athletics means more than play. A writer in the Chinese Republic weekly magazine published and edited by Chinese in Shanghai, says:

"The turn to athletics in China has a great meaning. It is the manifestation of a national determination to make good. It bespeaks the temper of a humiliated, disillusioned people that whatever their past, it never is too late to make amends and that they are going to train the bodies no less than the minds of the succeeding generations for the arduous and gigantic task of securing racial survival and prosperity for the Chinese nation. The fact that China was represented at Los Angeles showed her determination to catch up with the times even during a period of crisis."

The rise of athletics in China is not so much a revolutionary matter as it is a reversion to the golden days of the distant past. Sport, as a form of martial discipline, or professional art, is no new thing to the Chinese. The ancient classics extol archery and horsemanship and later writings made illustrious and almost legendary figures of great swordsmen and boxers.

Way Of Combatting Blood Fluke Found

New York N. Y. — New methods of combatting the blood fluke, a dangerous parasite of the American tropics, similar in effect to the hookworm, make possible its elimination within the next decade. Dr. George W. Bachman, director of the School of Tropical Medicine, associated with Columbia University, announced recently.

Preventive measures, developed during the past few years, combined with the injection of a new drug, fowadin, are the means by which the prevalence of the disease, from which 35,000 in Porto Rico alone are suffering, can be reduced, Dr. Bachman states.

The methods found successful as a result of a year and a half trial in Porto Rico will be made available for use in other infested areas by means of exhibits of the fifth congress of the Pan American Medical Association, part of which will meet in San Juan, Porto Rico.

"The attacks of the blood fluke on human beings cause an insidious gradual weakening of the system which may not be apparent for a long period," Dr. Bachman explains. "As high as 60 per cent of the population may be affected in a given area, seriously retarding the working ability of the whole community."

The blood fluke is one of a type of parasite which spends part of its life in one host and part in another. Besides the stage spent in human beings, it passes part of its life history in a freshwater snail.

"In a stage following the period spent in the snail, the germs are distributed through the water, attaching themselves to and penetrating the skin of persons bathing in it," Dr. Bachman said.

In order to receive plays from all those who wish to enter into the recently outlined programme of the Workshop

Modern Dramatists And Russian Short Stories Discussed

the exception of Eugene O'Neill. Born in 1888 he travelled considerably in the States and became a journalist. He gained much fame in his second play, "What Price Glory"—an excellent piece of realism. This was followed by "Saturday's Children" (1927), "Gods of Lightning" (1928), "Gypsy," and in 1931 "Elizabeth and Essex." The latter is a remarkable play, though not sticking closely to history. His "Of thee I Sing" in 1932 won the Pulitzer Prize. His latest play is "Mary of Scotland."

Kaufman Satirical
George Kaufman was the next dramatist discussed by the speaker. His work is clever and satirical. He has collaborated much with Marc Connelly in several of his plays. "Decey," "To the Ladies," "The Beggar on Horseback," "Merton of the Movies" and "Royal Family" are some of the plays written jointly by the two. Other later plays are "Dinner at Eight," "June Moon," "Once in a Lifetime" and "The Butter and Egg Man." Most of his works are whimsically satirical.

Phillips Barry has light superficial ability. He writes light comedy. In 1923 his "You and I" won the Harvard prize. Most of his plays deal with the upper middle class. His earlier plays have a realistic vein and light dialogue. "Holidays" is particularly well done, continued the speaker. Other plays include "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," "John," "Animal Kingdom," and "In a Garden." Barry is especially known for the dialogue in his plays.

S. Behrman is another well known modern dramatist.
